Why we exist

Our driving force is our passion for skiing, our love and respect for the beautiful untouched Arctic landscape and being able to share this with others. We eat, sleep and breathe skiing. We have fine-tuned every part of the experience during almost two decades now, both on and off the mountains.

Our dedicated team

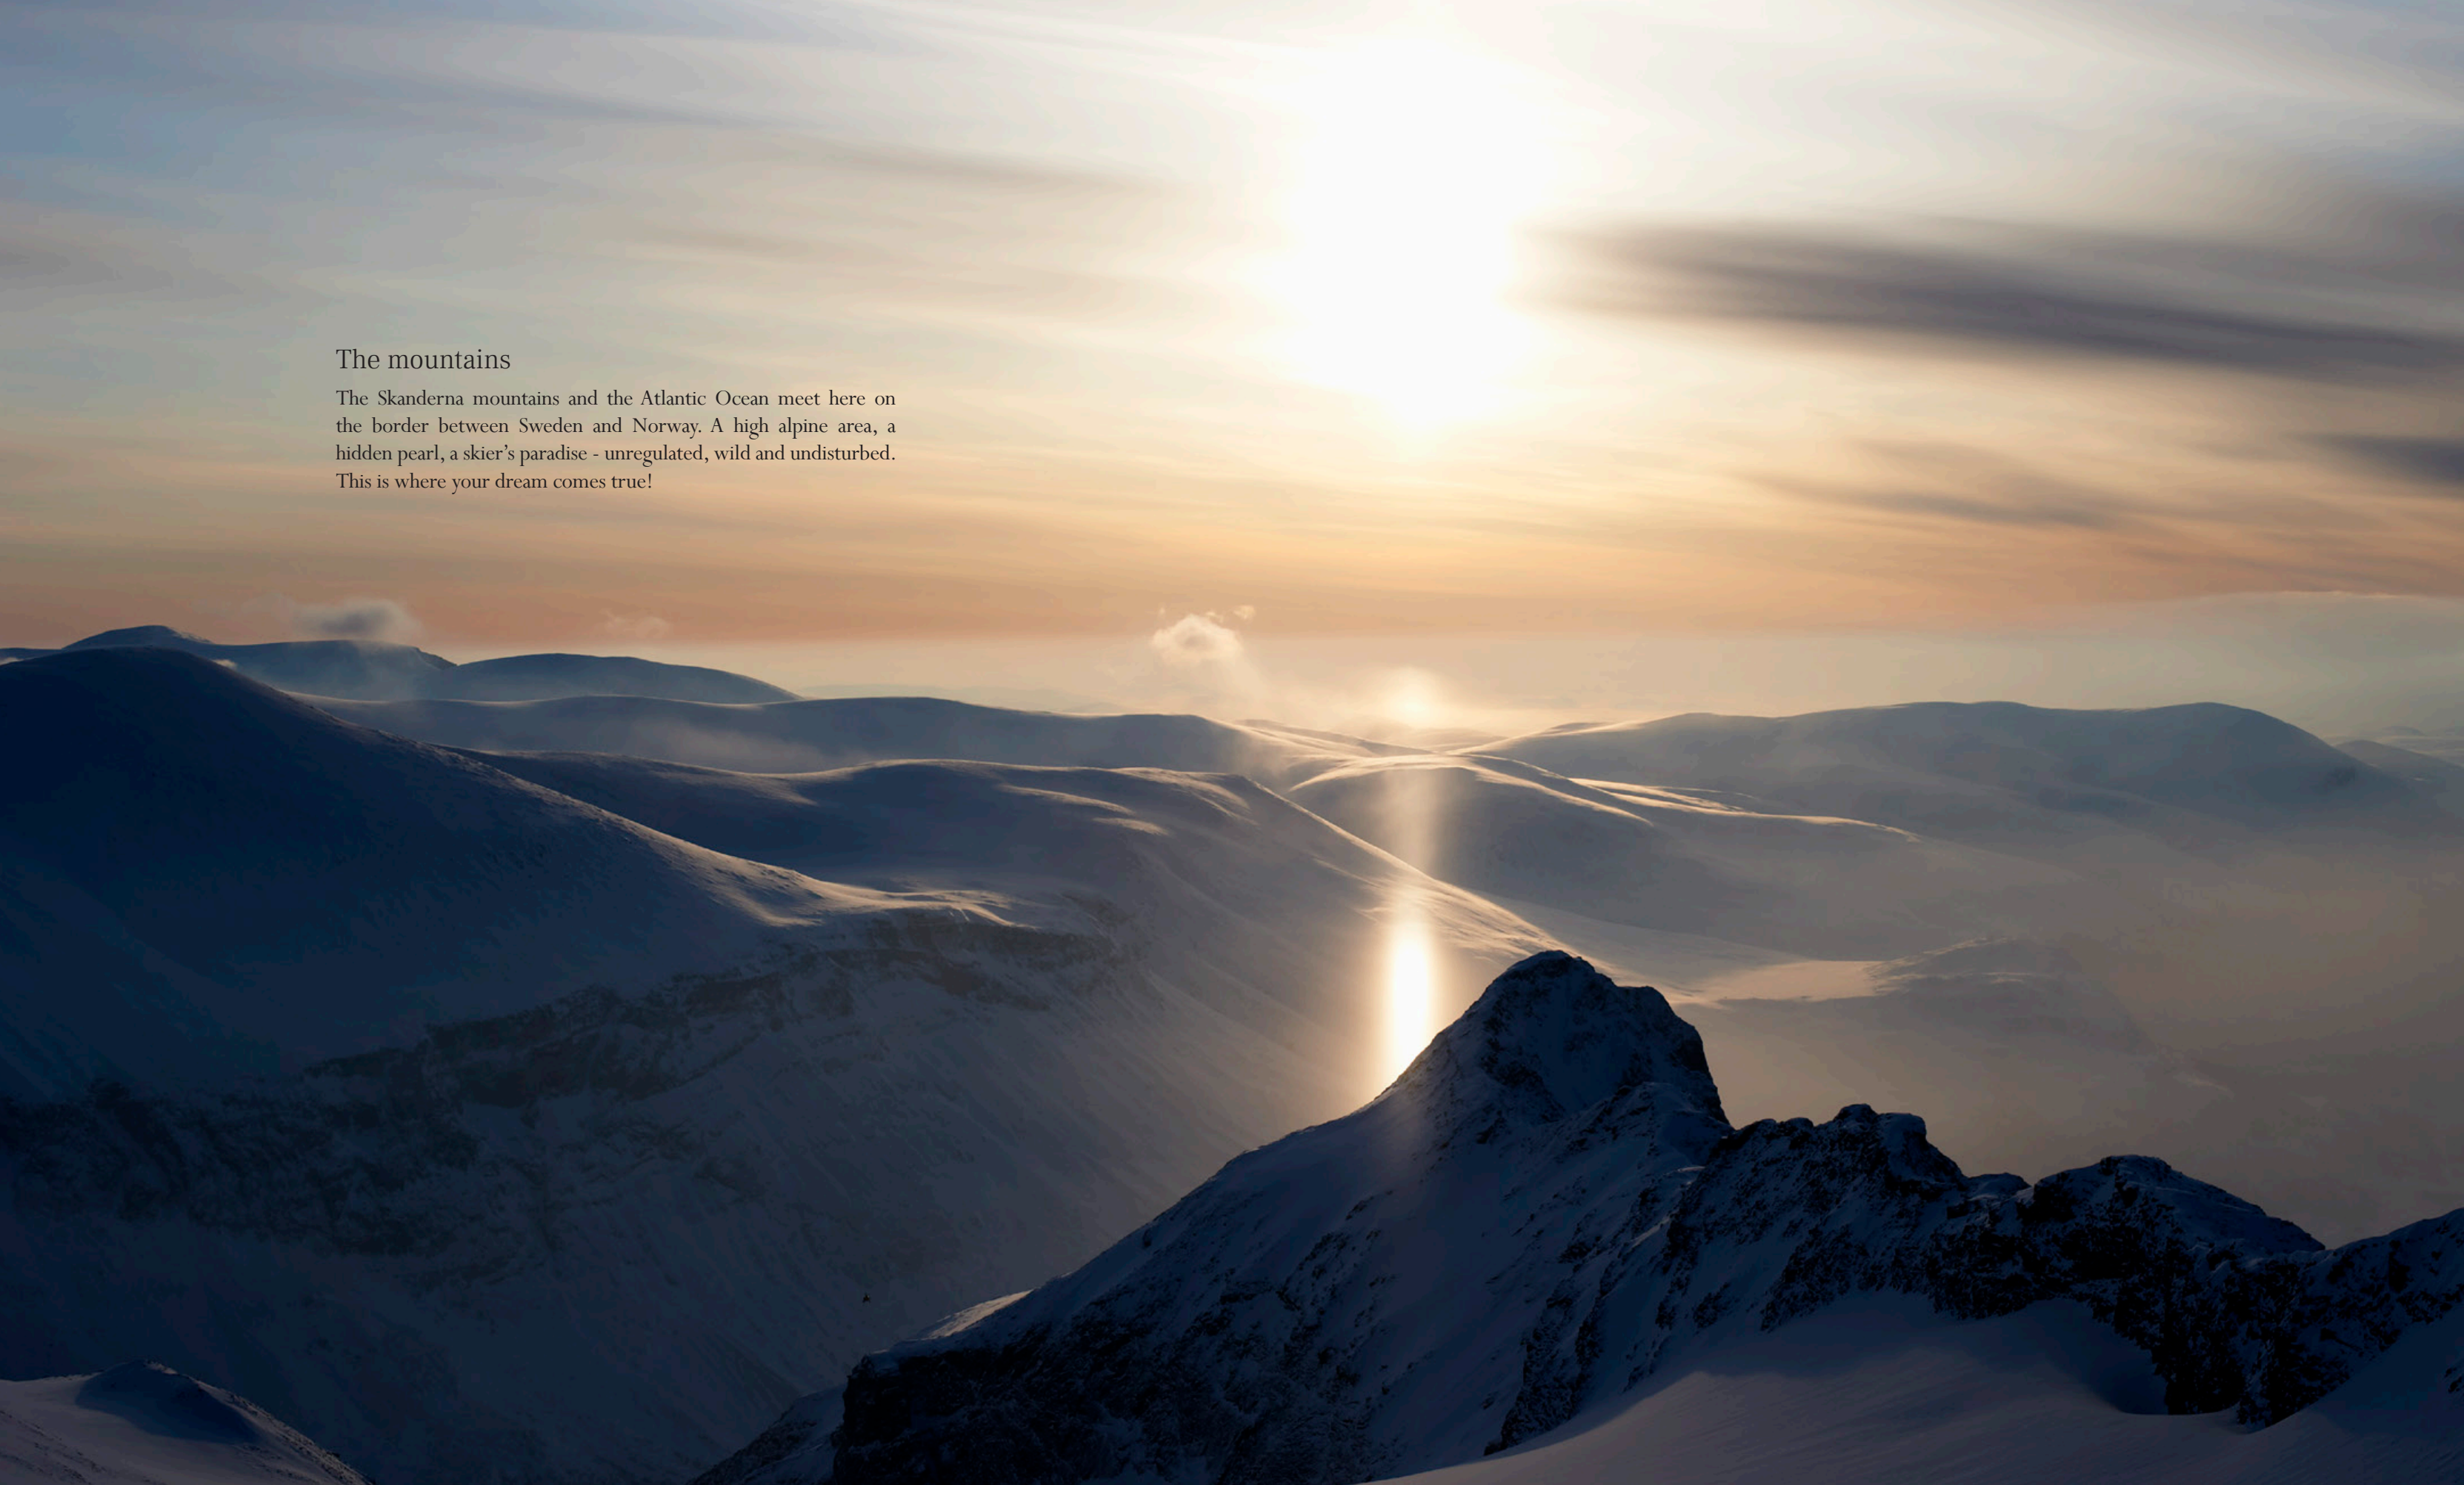

Our guides are all passionate skiers and never stop exploring new zones to find unriden terrain. We do this because we love it! However, safety is our first priority and all of our guides average more than fifteen years of ski guiding experience in avalanche and alpine mountain terrain. Arctic Elements cooperates with mountainguides UIAGM/IVBV/IFMG A.

The mountains

The Skanderna mountains and the Atlantic Ocean meet here on the border between Sweden and Norway. A high alpine area, a hidden pearl, a skier's paradise - unregulated, wild and undisturbed. This is where your dream comes true!

The snow

Riksgränsen is the area in Sweden where you are most certain of snow, with 5-8 metres per year. Dry, fine and cold snow comes in from the west and is dumped over the mountains. Despite the northern location, the temperature is pleasant due to its proximity to the Gulf Stream.

The sea

The Norwegian side offers stunning scenery of the fjords where we start from 1200 meters above sea level and ski all the way to the sea. Over the season the snow will change from cold and dry winter snow to fine spring snow and it is not uncommon to experience both, basically skiing from winter to summer in one ride.

The Aurora Borealis

During most of the season you will be able to experience the unbelievable colors of the Aurora Borealis, also known as the Northern Light, move across the Arctic sky.

The midnight sun

From mid May the truly unique and surreal experience of skiing under the midnight sun is available and the lifts run long after midnight sun in full sunshine in June.

Skiing is our passion

The Meteorologen Boutique Hotel

Arctic Elements own lodge in the legendary mountain resort of Riksgränsen. "Metro" is housed in a more than a century old timber building that use to be a meteorology station. Recently lovingly restored to a personal and cozy hotel where its easy to feel at home. The staff have developed service and amenities with heliskiers in mind and offer delicious gourmet food, all locally sourced.

Narvik Mountain Lodge

Arctic Elements private lodge with a rustic touch of the Arctic wilderness offers stunning views of the fjord and the beautiful Lofoten Peninsula in the horizon. From here you can experience the Aurora Borealis dance across the evening sky with the lights from the city below. A maximum of five people is housed here with direct access to the most spectacular helipad in Europe. Hot tub, massage and yoga awaits for you after a full day of deep powder skiing.

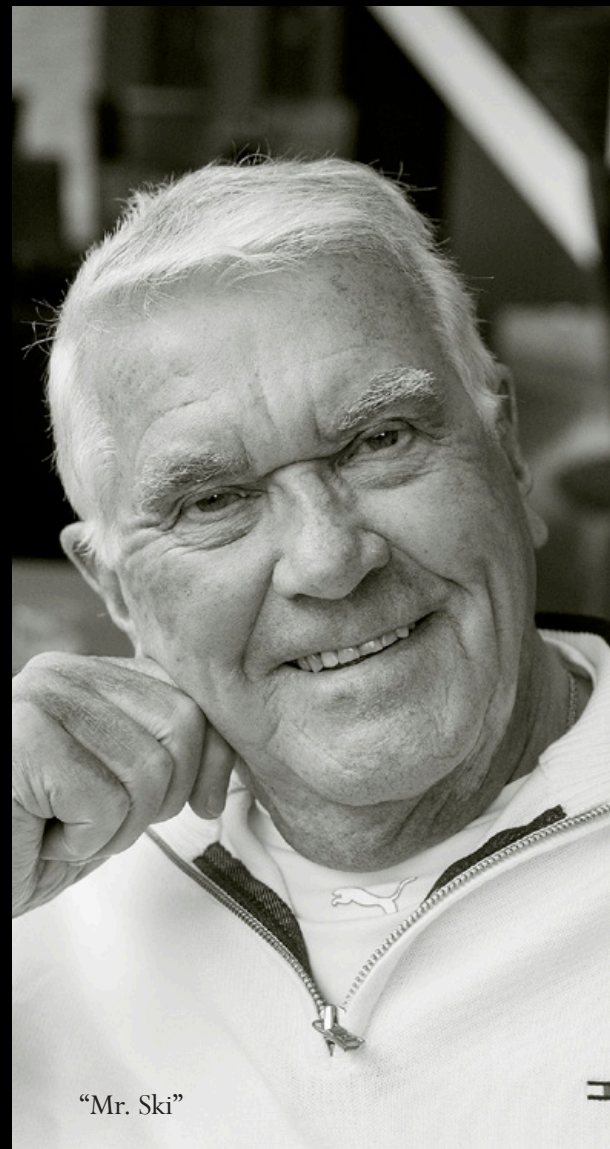

The history of Riksgränsen

More than a century ago a railway was built through to haul valuable iron ore from the Swedish mines in Kiruna to the ice-free port in Narvik, Norway. The border hamlet of Riksgränsen (the name in Swedish means "state border") appeared almost overnight as a custom stop. A road here wasn't built until 1984. Still, this was where Sweden's modern ski tourism began in the late 1920s, more than 200 kilometers above the Arctic Circle.

The first ski lift was installed in 1952 and Ulf "Mr Ski" Edborg started the first ski school in Sweden in 1960. Admission price: 1 USD. According to "Mr Ski" the 50s to 70s was the hay day in Riksgränsen with only hard core skiers and hardly no regulations in and around the slopes, and it became a legendary place for the Swedes. A century after the railway opened Riksgränsen became a world-class metropolis for free ride skiing and outdoor recreation. Mr Ski was probably the first heliskier in Sweden in the late 60s, in a small helicopter with only him and a pilot aboard.

"Mr. Ski"

I have been skiing all over the world but this is the only place I tend to come back to. The vast untouched nature, the varied terrain and the opportunity to be able to ski literally anywhere you want, without seeing any other people - that really appeals to me.
